St. Petersburg, July 22.—A second takes places St. Petersburg in a state of extraordinary security by the declaration of a minor form of martial law A part of the province of Kiev, where armed uprisings are anticipated in consequence of the dissoluted armed and wild with of parliament, is placed under martial law.

+++++++++++++++++++ St. Petersburg, June 22.—Russia's first experiment in parliamentary government came to an ignominous end tonight with the promulgation of two imperial ukases, the first dissolving the present parliament and previding for the convocation of its successor on March 5, 1907, more than six months hence, and the second proclaiming the capital of Russia and the surrounding province to be in a state of extraordinary security, which is only infinitesimally different, from full martial. St. Petersburg, June 22.-Russia's first surrounding province to be in a state of extraordinary security, which is only infinitesimally different from full martial law. This measure of safety is to provide for the outbursts which undoubtedly will be provoked by this daring measure. It is now but a step to dictatorship.

The texts of the two ukases, both of which are addressed in the stereotyped form to the ruling senate, are as follows:

Parliament Dissolved.

"According to paragraph 105 of the fundamental law we order the imperial parliament dissolved and fix the time for the convocation of the newly elected parliament for March 5, 1907.

The text of the second ukase follows:
"In consideration of a report of the council of ministers presented to us regarding the necessity in the future for the preservation of order and public safety in the city and province of St. Petersburg we consider it necessary to declare in the above city and province, instead of the state of reinforced security which now prevails there, a state of extraordinary security. With these pithy but momentous orders, which were promulgated at 3 o'clock this morning, Emperor Nicholas by a stroke of the pen set Russia back to where she stood two years ago, in the full grip of the autocracy and irresponsible government, wiping out for six months at least the whole structure of parliament greated at much cost delay in fixing the time for the The delay in fixing the time for the new elections seems to indicate a decision to change the present basis of suffrage to perhaps a basis of universal suffrage with which the advisers of the emperor hope to swamp the educated liberals, the socialists and the workmen with the vastness of peasantry. The only uncertainty is the coming storm—when and where it will break. The advocates of the "mailed fist" believe that by dissolving parliament and provoking a collision now they will find the revolutionary leaders not prepared for an uprising as at Moscow whereas further delay would nearly give the revolutionists the time needed to organize and to continue corruption of the army.

of the sovereign's will.

The Russian parliament which has been dissolved by imperial ukase, was constituted May 10, 1906, amid scenes of general rejoicing. The speech from the throne read at the opening session was concli-iatory in tone. The reorganized council of the empire was formally convened in the hall of nobles at the Winter palace the following day.

Many Different Races.

Many Different Races.

A striking feature of the lower house was the multiplicity of races represented, there being Great Russians, Little Russians, White Russians, Poles, Littluanians, Letts, Germans, Tartars, Bashkirs, Kirghis, Circassians, Mordvannians, Vottaks, Jews. Bulgarlans, Chuvais, Roumanians, Calmuks, Georgians, Armenians, Ossetines and Burlats in attendance.

On the third day of the sitting in the lower house the first signs of the opposition's antagonism to the government—when the demand for amnesty and the Polish campaign for autonomy began; and when, on May 18, the repliy of the lower house to the address from the throne, was adopted, opinion was general that this would cause conflict with the crown because of its radical demands. During the entire session the house has been at bitter odds with the government and has demanded its resignation and the formation of a cabinet from members of the majority. Time and again there has been rumors that the emperor, because of the radicalism of the opposition intended to dissolve parliament and rumor has had it that troops would be called to forcibly eject the members if they hesitated to obey an edict closing the house.

The lower house, presided over by Professor S. A. Mouromtseff, had a membership of 467.

Shoshone, Wyo., July 21.—Warner
Moody, town attorney, was shot and killed about midnight last night. He was a son of the late United States Senator Moody of South Dakota. Frank Anderson, on hearing the shots, ran out of his tent and was shot in the shoulder. He is a second bullet through his heart.

Anderson, who was camping in a tent nearby, was the only witness, and he immediately started in pursuit. It was so dark, however, that he could hardly see the fleeing man, and he did not attempt to shoot, hoping to trail the assassins until he could summon aid.

In crossing an onen space in the dense. In crossing an open space in the dense-ly covered prairie, one of the bandits fired and Anderson fell with a bullet wound in his shoulder.

Only One Murderer.

Moody was shot twice, once before his wife screamed, and immediately after. Later dispatches indicate that only one man was engaged in the killing and, after shooting Moody, he ran in the direction of Anderson's tent, and the latter, appearing at the door, was shot to prevent possible recogniften.

Warner Moody is a son of the late United States Senator Moody of South Dakota, and a brother of Burdette Moody, one of the largest mine operators in Deadwood and the Black Hills. Burdette Moody is now in Los Angeles, but has been notified by wire of the murder.

The local police force has been reinforced by the entire detective force of the Northwestern railway here, and every effort will be made to apprehend the murderer. Already arrests are being made of all the men suspected of possible participation in the killing.

Kansas City, July 21.—Bertha Bowlin and Frank Kern, the young couple assaulted with a gas pipe on a lonely roadway here Thursday night, were both unconscious today and believed to be close to death. During a period of semi-consciousness early today the young woman, in answer to a question as to who had struck her, said: "Bert." Albert Crone, the former sweetheart of Miss Bowlin, still maintains his innocence.

Miss Bowlin died this afternoon.

agitating and conveyed to the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul. Two squadrons of dragoons and hus-sars have been sent to Cronstadt where there is a recurrence of the ferment among soldiers and sailors.

REDS WERE IN SESSION.

Russian Police Captured Some of the Central Figures.

St. Petersburg, July 21.—The arrests made Friday in the office of the Misla were not connected with press officers, but because a sitting of the central committee of the revolutionary party was held there. Solomnka, the editor of the paper, who is a member of parliament, hid three of the leaders of the party in his room, two of whom escaped. Important documents were selzed.

Those who escaped were M. Chernoff, field general of the revolutionists and head of their central committee and his leading lieutenant. The troops and police occupied all the exists from the building so quickly that M. Chernoff was unable to escape through any of these but while confederates barred some of the doors in order to draw the attention of the officers in another direction, Chernoff and his lieutenant dropped from a second story window into a crowd of workmen in sympathy with his party and were spirited away in a carriage before the police were aware that they had escaped.

High Pitch of Excitement.

"The anti-foreign movement is strongest in the northern and central portions of Mexico, where the natives have been wrought up to a high pitch of excitement by agitators and agents of revolutionary societies. Along the Rio Grande border the movement is not so strong because the Mexicans fear the Texans, who know how to shoot.

"The educated class of Mexicans is not in sympathy with the anti-foreign movement, but is in a hopeless minority. The army is recruited from the lower classes and cannot be relied upon. The uprising its scheduled to occur in September, and it probably will be necessary for the United States to throw an army across the border in order to protect American citizens.

Tucson, Ariz., July 21.—Americans arriving here from Sonora and other points in Mexico deny that there are indications of preparations for a revolution there, as reported in dispatches from El Paso and New Orleans. Colonel Epes Randolph, manager of the Southern Pacific railroad's interests in Arizona and Mexico said this evening:

"I returned from Mexico a few days ago. I spent two weeks in the City of Mexico and several days at Guadalajara and other cities of the interior of the republic. I never heard a hint of the republic. I never heard a hint of the reported preparations for revolt or revolution. I found the best of feeling provailing everywhere, the people at work opening up the resources of the country, establishing great industries and making money. I made careful inquiry and everything looked good. So far as I could see the natives and foreigners were working together shoulder to shoulder, each in the best of spirits.
